

Ascension Sports Partners announces placement of Season Ticket Sales Account Executive at the Jacksonville Jaguars

Jacksonville Jaguars hire Andrew Martin as Season Ticket Sales Account Executive

December 2009 – Ascension Sports Partners LLC recently completed a search for the National Football League's (NFL) Jacksonville Jaguars as Andrew Martin has been named as an Account Executive within the Season Ticket Sales team.

At the Jaguars, Martin will be responsible for generating new revenue through the sales of club seats and general bowl seats via partial and full season packages.

Martin comes to the Jaguars after working within the Premium Sales training program at the Atlanta Falcons. Prior experience includes work at LEJ Sports and National Sports Management. Martin received his undergraduate degree from Johnson and Wales University in Rhode Island and a Masters in Sports Administration from Georgia State University.

Senior Manager Premium and Season Sales, Tom Patterson, had this to say, "We are pleased to add someone like Andrew on our season ticket sales team. Andrew has tremendous potential and will bring an excitement and energy which will help us succeed in tackling ticket sales in the upcoming season".

"I am excited for the opportunity to come to a challenging new atmosphere in Jacksonville. Tom has done nothing but instill complete confidence in me that this move was one that will only enhance my current and future aspirations".
